White Commercial Surveyors provide development advice for any land owner along the London to Birmingham M40 and beyond – advice from inception to completion. Across all sectors we draw upon our marketleading knowledge obtained from our direct relationships and connections with the occupier, investor and development markets to inform clients of the most appropriate uses for their development opportunities.

Our role begins by identifying a site's unique selling features and value; reviewing development options to maximise marketability; strategic planning and site and product optimisation; then guiding clients through their options on issues such as design, pricing, marketing and exit strategy. Our advice is backed by our empirical and in-depth transactional market knowledge and planning capability and contacts.

This ensures clients receive quality guidance from our senior director level chartered surveyors, tailored to clients specific needs.
